WAINWRIGHT, WEDNESDAY, JULY 29th, 1942

EXCESSIVE INQUIRY COSTS

While the findings of the Royal Commission which was appointed to conduct an inquiry into the ill-fated Hong Kong expedition are of prime importance and must of necessity overshadow all other factors, the matter of the cost of the inquiry itself should not be entirely overlooked. According to information given out by the Minister of Finance in the House of Commons at Ottawa, one Montreal lawyer received a fee of $9,568.20 for his services during the comparatively short inquiry. A lawyer from Toronto was paid $7,298.77 and another from the same city received $4,084.26. A third Toronto man (to his credit) who had acted as counsel in the inquiry had submitted no account to the government for his services and received no fee.

Had these barristers submitted similar accounts to private companies and received payments for their services on the terms mentioned, there would have been little cause for complaint from the citizens of Canada. However, such was not the case, and the residents of this country are fully aware of the fact that the fees paid to the barristers in this case must come directly from the Canadian treasury, which is built up by taxes upon the people of the Dominion. They have every right to feel that the payment of such seemingly exorbitant fees is not justified, especially at a time when the government which has approved such expenditure is stressing the fact that Canadians should put every idle penny into the war effort.

The Hong Kong inquiry is not the only instance in which expenses have leaped over the fences of reason and good business practice. A perusal of Hansard, official record of all proceedings in the House of Commons, will reveal a long list of salaries and expenditures which are surprising to say the least. Little effort seems to have been made by the government to keep expenses to a minimum in order that every spare dollar might be diverted into the war effort.

It is the duty of the government to set an example for the people of Canada in these matters by refusing to approve of any expenditure which seems out of line. It is high time that the administration at Ottawa made a determined stand on this issue, for the simple reason that the average resident is rapidly becoming disgusted with the large payments which are made to officials and experts of various types in connection with public works and other government projects.—Lacombe Globe.

WHO WILL BUILD THIS "NEW WORLD"?

(Liberty Magazine)
The peoples of the democracies during the past three decades have talked a good deal about internationalism. As governments, we have never achieved it. The one great attempt at such collectivism failed because its participants failed, as nations, to achieve the unselfish will to co-operate that would have been possible between the individuals of those nations.

The member countries of the League of Nations could not make up their minds about Spain or China. But a Dr. Bethune could readily enough make up his mind that there was something wrong about those countries. So there was born the Bethune Blood Transfusion Service that brought a little bit of help and pity into lands torn by bitter strife.

There wasn't much thought of internationalism before the first Great War. The Carnegie and Rockefeller and Nobel foundations were not the result of governmental planning. They sprang from the inspired thinking of private citizens who had a vision of a better world that did not stop at some geographical boundary. There is nothing about international conventions of social workers or educators or doctors or literary groups or Rotarians. In those things the peoples of this and other democracies showed that they could step across boundary lines, that they recognized that the world is made up of people.

who live and work and suffer and achieve, and not of tectonic impersonal divisions on a map.

But, strangely enough, these same people who could think so broadly as individuals, seemed to lose the vision of a service that knew no boundaries when they combined as governments. Trade and politics and economics they set aside as something different from these broad humanities. These were ideas that couldn't be shared without the possibility of some disadvantageous happening.

But there is a new spirit in the world today. It is the spirit of people who want a better social order, not for themselves alone but for everyone. It is presented in the words of the American Ambassador John G. Winant as he challenges Britain and the world to implement the ideals and the dreams of the new order that is our enduring hope.

"When the war is done," says Mr. Winant, "the drive for tanks must be a drive for houses. The drive for food to prevent the enemy from starving must become a drive for food to satisfy the needs of all the peoples of all countries. The drive for physical fitness in the forces must become a drive for bringing death and sickness rates in the whole population down to the lowest possible level."

And Cardinal Villeneuve of Quebec in a pastoral letter, is saying to his people, "We must keep in mind that victory over our enemies will be use less unless, afterwards, we establish a more just and equitable social order in which human rights will be more completely respected, and wealth more fairly distributed."

These ringing words are but the voice of a spirit that is moving in the hearts of great multitudes of people in many different lands. It springs from a new warm feeling of comradeship that is born of tragic happenings and great obligations shared. It is fostered by the urgent necessities of the moment. It is touching even governments. There is an organization known as the Combined Production and Resources Board. On this Board, in a sort of dual chairmanship, is Captain Lyttelton, an Englishman, and Donald Neilson, an American. Canada is still more closely allied with its great neighbor.

We have our Permanent Joint Board of Defense, our Joint War Production Committee, our Materials Coordinating Committee, our Joint Economic Committee. A half dozen years ago such arrangements would have been inconceivable. Surely these unique developments may have their profound repercussions in a united effort to seek that better world of which we talk so glibly.

It has been the grim necessity of a war for survival that has brought us so closely together in these days. But necessities do not last forever. It may be that when the time of the moment have passed, governments will return to their old way of thinking, and groups within the community will begin acting again in the short-sighted terms of their own narrow interests.

Our hope is in the people, that they who have always gone further in their individual thinking than the corporate thinking of their leaders will take that leadership. It is the people's new world. It is they who can create from disaster a better way of life.

The Editor:

Dear Sir: Having noticed a letter in your valuable publication containing an unwarranted attack on the Wainwright Hotel signed by a person hiding behind the non-de-plume of "Ex-soldier," I wish to express my strong resentment of same and would state in my opinion it appears to be a deliberate attempt to incite and inflame public opinion in this district and the troops that may be stationed here, against the hotel. This person made his statement without knowing the facts of the situation and appears to have attempted to injure the reputation of the undersigned by engineering contempt for him and the Wainwright Hotel in the minds of all the residents of this district, by his inference that the Wainwright Hotel, the proprietor and staff are a "glaring case of lack of patriotism."

The undersigned has already offered to place his establishment at the disposal of the military if it is required and his male staff are all married men, some of them not physically fit, but all willing to serve if called upon to do so.

The publication of a mean and thoughtless attack inferring a lack of patriotism at this time and in these circumstances could lead to disastrous results, and not only for the hotel.

If "Ex-soldier" has any complaint to make regarding the loyalty of the Wainwright Hotel or its owner, let him make it through the Legion direct to me and be sure he is in a position to prove his statement.

No, Junior, these big bells are not being used on tanks. The bells are being assembled for passenger locomotives in the same factory where Canada's Valentine tanks are produced in mass quantities. The Valentine, an infantry tank, is now in service on the Russian front where Soviet military experts have described the Canadian tank as highly effective. It is an 18-ton machine, powered with diesel motor. A giant mechanical ferret, it is capable of burrowing its way through a brick building and travelling at 20 miles per hour over difficult terrain. The body is armour-plated, riveted and welded, and the rotary turret may be operated either by hand or electrical controls.

FARM NOTES

CULL FULLETS FOR PROFIT

During the growing season of chicks cull and destroy any sick or unthrifty birds. Such birds may spread disease throughout the flock, says E. F. Tunney, Dominion Experimental Station, Charlottetown, P.E.I.

Real culling for profit is done at the time of placing pullets in laying quarters. Two pitfalls are to be avoided: 1. Don't save a poor pullet merely because the pullet crop may be somewhat scarce, and 2. Never keep a poor bird because it came from some famous breeder or hatcheryman.

It is much better to feed eight good pullets and discard four poor ones than to feed the entire dozen at a loss. A poor bird is a liability regardless of the reputation of the breeder. Cull without mercy to the fine points of productive ability. Keep birds with broad back, deep body, clear cut face with fine-textured comb and wattles, bright eye, close feathering and alert carriage. Watch eye color closely and discard every bird showing variation from the natural eye color. White, grey, or "pearly" eye in a bay eyed variety is a symptom closely associated with leucosis and all such birds should be discarded immediately.

It is essential to observe strict sanitation and avoid the use of cracked or mouldy feeds.

GRASSHOPPER SITUATION
Officers of the Dominion Entomological Laboratories at Brandon, Man., Saskatoon, Sask., and Lethbridge, Alta., annually make surveys upon which are based forecasts as to the probable grasshopper situation the following year. Dr. R. D. Bird of the Brandon Laboratory states that these surveys have attained a high degree of accuracy and are conducted in August, September, and October. The August survey consists of a search for adult grasshoppers. Concentrations are noted and classified according to density of population. In September and October localities where an economic infestation was noted are visited and the soil sifted in a search for eggs. It is upon the average number of eggs per square foot that the forecast is based. The density of egg infestation is classified and the localities are mapped indicating where light, moderate, severe, and very severe infestations occur.

These maps are published and exhibited in Post Office lobbies and municipal offices throughout the infested area. Commencing in 1931 the present outbreak reached a peak of 53,592,640 infested acres in 1935, fell to 43,224,900 in 1936, rose to a record peak of 97,272,320 in 1938, and again fell off to 53,169,920 infested acres in 1941. The infested acreage for 1942 is less in Manitoba but a little greater in Saskatchewan and Alberta. Severe areas occur about Davidson, Greyhound, and Vulcan, Alta. Large sections of eastern Alta., Western Sask., and northern Red River valley area of Man., are moderately infested. There are no very severe areas.

The amount of damage resulting from grasshopper egg deposits varies greatly with the weather. Long periods of cool, wet weather, such as has occurred to date, keep hoppers quiet and there is relatively little damage. However, they will again become active should it turn hot and dry.

RELEASE HITCH AND LEFT FOR MOWER

By mounting a lift lever on a tractor, a horse mower can be drawn with a tractor and the unit can be operated by man. Normally it requires two men for such a unit, as one man is required on the tractor to lift the cutter bar over obstructions, such as stones in the hay field. If a lever is placed on the tractor and connected by a rope to the left lever on the mower, the cutter bar can be operated from the tractor. Such a device consists of a lever, a few feet of rope and a small pulley and it can be easily built in the farm shop, says W. Kalbfleisch, Agricultural Engineer, Field Husbandry Division, Central Experimental Farm, Ottawa.

Whenever a horse mower is used on a tractor, a safety release hitch is required to protect the mower. A commercial mower hitch can be purchased for this purpose, or a simple home-made safety hitch can be made in the farm shop or by a blacksmith. To eliminate springs in the safety release hitch, an ordinary two-inch nail can be used as a shear pin for the hitch.

Agricultural Engineering Circular No. 4, published by the Field Husbandry Division of the Central Experimental Farm, Ottawa, describes and illustrates a home-made safety release hitch for a horse drawn tractor mower. It also contains illustrations of a home-made tractor lift lever for a horse mower which allows one man to operate both the tractor and the mower.

Circular No. 4, entitled "Release Hitch and Tractor Lift for a Tractor Drawn Horse Mower" can be obtained from the Field Husbandry Division, Central Experimental Farm, Ottawa.

HEALTH

A HEALTH SERVICE OF THE CANADIAN MEDICAL ASSOCIATION AND LIFE INSURANCE COMPANIES IN CANADA

Until the year 1932 when the federal government reduced the grant to provinces for the fight against venereal disease, Canada led the world in control of social diseases. Dr. Gordon Bates said today in launching a nationwide survey aimed at securing medical and social opinion and statistics on wartime venereal diseases which is now a matter of growing concern to physicians and social workers throughout the Dominion.

Public health officers and other health officials from Halifax to Vancouver have been invited to express opinions on methods of implementing co-ordinated nationwide play for control of venereal disease. Dr. Bates said. Copies of the resolutions passed at the annual meeting of the Health League have been forwarded to these officials, along with copies of a survey on co-ordinating venereal disease compiled by the Social Science Research Foundation of Washington, D.C. Significant of public apathy to the increasing seriousness of wartime problems caused by social diseases is that in Canada expenditures by grants to the provinces total only $40,000 per year while in the United States, under the famed surgeon-general Dr. Thomas Parran working in co-operation with President Roosevelt, federal grants total eight million dollars this year and more in subsequent years. The situation is now so well under control that medical authorities believe that there will be less venereal disease during the war than in the period immediately preceding it.

The resolution, which is being forwarded to health authorities in Ottawa by the social hygiene division of the Health League, is as follows: "That a co-ordinated programme for the control of venereal disease should be re-established in Canada and that it should involve the creation of a Venereal Diseases Division in the Federal Department of Health, the establishment of sanitary grants to the province and also grants for the purpose of proper education of the public through the voluntary association as was previously the case both in England and the Dominion."

In a broader field of national health and general preventive measures aimed at improving national health and preventing epidemics public opinion is being sought on the following resolutions:

RESOLVED "That this Association go on record as endorsing the Pasteurization of milk as a means of preventing milk-borne infections and as a means of conserving National Health."

FURTHERMORE, be it resolved, that we deplore the fact that only in one province of Canada has a law been passed to ensure province-wide pasteurization.

FURTHERMORE, in view of the present urgent need for exerting every effort to keep our citizens healthy and fit, we urge the Dominion Government and all Provincial Governments to co-operate in planning for legislation to ensure the pasteurization of all milk sold in Canada." These measures, Dr. Bates stated, along with other programs in other divisions of public health work, will lead soon to a national health program, emanating from Ottawa which will improve the physical status of all classes of people in Canada, cut down the enormous loss of time of industrial workers due to preventable disease, and sharply reduce the present high percentage of young men whose physical status prevent their entering the armed forces, and in many cases prevent their entering the services in Category "A".

The Health League of Canada directs public attention to a bulletin issued by the local Health Department which should become familiar to everyone who is going from city to country for holidays.

The bulletin warns of the dangers of infection from impure water and milk, and supplies necessary practical details as to protective measures.

The public is reminded that unpasteurized milk may carry germs that cause typhoid, scarlet fever, tuberculous, diphtheria or other infectious diseases. Impure water may cause typhoid fever, and health authorities warn that no water supply can be considered safe unless it is treated. Moreover, there is literally no cost to vacationists to render their water and milk supply safe when they are out in the country. The process by which germ-free milk and water can be made merely requires a little work and continuous thoughtfulness.

To sterilize water: Mix up a stock solution of chlorine by rubbing to a thin cream a teaspoonful of chloride of lime with a little water in a cup, then fill the cup with water. Then dilute this solution with three more cups of water. This stock solution if kept in a tightly stoppered bottle will retain its strength for a week. Use a teaspoonful of this solution to two gallons of drinking water, and it

To pasteurize milk: Heat in a boiler until it reaches 145 degrees F. Then set the boiler on the lowest heat of the stove for 30 minutes, after which cool the milk quickly and place it in the ice box. If there is no thermometer handy, the bottle or boiler of milk should be placed in a pail or saucupan of water which is filled so that the water outside is about as high as the milk inside. Heat the milk until the water boils, then remove from the fire, pour out about a third of the hot water and refill the saucupan or pail with cold water to the former level. Keep the milk in this for at least 30 minutes and then remove to cool. The public is reminded that pasteurization does not affect either the taste or the food value of the milk, and that after pasteurization the milk should be treated the same as raw milk to prevent it becoming sour. Mothers who are taking infants out on the road should of course be particularly watchful of these details.

through the seed field and pull out by the roots any tall weeds or plants of other kinds of grain that do not belong there, and to carry these plants to the end of the field, pile them up and when dry burn them. Then before harvesting, one or two swaths from the seed plot or field, when cutting time comes, the caryopses should be removed from the binder and the whole machine cleaned thoroughly with a whisk broom, and the joints of wood and ironwork should be picked out, the horses hoofs should be cleaned out and the operator should also turn down the cuffs of his trousers—all this to be sure that no foreign grains will be dropped on the clean seed field.

The stocks of the seed plot should be well separated from the stocks from adjoining fields, so that the men hauling to the separator will not mix the stocks from adjoining fields with the seed crop.

Following factors have tended to decrease the supply or increase demand:—Southern Argentina is in need of good rains—Heavy rains in South Russia are delaying the harvest—The Egyptian 1942 wheat crop has been officially estimated at 47 million bushels (6 million bushels lower than earlier estimates).

Following factors have tended to increase supply or decrease demand:—Crop prospects continue excellent in Western Canada—Argentina reports heavy stocks of corn on hand. This year's corn crop estimated at 360 million bushels—United Kingdom and Chile announce that heavy yields are reported from U.S.A. harvests.

Agriculture Bravely Persists In Wartime British Isles

This is the 24th in a series of articles on conditions in Wartime Britain and parts of Europe, written for the weekly newspapers of Canada by their own representative, Hugh Temple, of the Fergus News-Record.

No doubt many readers of Canadian weekly newspapers would like to know something of agriculture in wartime Britain, and how the farmer fares. Travelling with a group of editors of city papers, I had not as much opportunity to study farming conditions as I would have liked but I was able to pick up a good deal of information in trips outside London.

The farmers in Britain fill just as important a place as the soldiers or the munition workers. One hears that sometimes of Canadian farmers but while there may be some doubt in Canada, there is none in England and Scotland.

Before the war, more than half the food consumed in Britain was imported, either from Denmark and other European countries or from Canada and other places across the ocean. Not only that, but some of the food for animals was imported and a large part of the chicken and hog feed.

The people of Britain must eat. All imports from Europe have been cut off, except occasional shipments of oranges from Spain and Portugal. All imported food must be brought from Canada or farther away. That costs money and lives. Shipping space is precious. It cannot be used for any foodstuffs or bulky articles such as packaged breakfast cereals. And every ton of extra food that can be produced in Britain is desperately needed. Cost has become a secondary consideration.

Farmers told what to raise. A few months before the war actually started, a bonus of some $8.00 an acre was offered to farmers for every acre of new land brought under cultivation.

A Canadian, travelling in England for the first time, gets the idea that every acre of land is in use. There are no unoccupied corners. For that matter, there are few fences. Evidently wood and fencing materials are scarce and so hedges are used. Most fields are smaller than in this country and the farms all look neat and tidy. But evidently, there was much waste of land, not only on large estates but on small farms. Swampy places have been drained; meadows that were in grass for hundreds of years have been turned over by the plow and actually millions of acres of extra land are cultivated.

What the farmer grows on his land in wartime is not left to his judgment. Every county has its War Agricultural Committee, and these, in turn appoint committees in all districts. These committees are not made up of politicians, but of working farmers, land owners and farm workers.

VANCOUVER

Because long distant travel has been somewhat restricted, many people are planning to visit Vancouver this year. Hotel Grosvenor is very popular—its rooms are in demand, because they are quiet yet very central. And the rates are low—commencing at $2.00. You are asked to make your reservations early. Don't be disappointed by taking a chance on trying to get a room when you arrive. You will like the Grosvenor—it's so cheerful and homelike—and it has no bar!

Hints for the Household

Minced veal makes a delicious stuffing for green peppers.

Ham all cash curtains exactly the same on top and bottom. Then they can be used either way and will give much more wear.

Starched articles will look nicer and will iron easily if dampened with hot instead of cold water.

Before heating milk in a saucepan rinse the pan with water and the milk will not scorch so easily.

If doors or bureau drawers stick in hot weather, a little wax rubbed on the surface where friction occurs will make them open and shut more easily.

Cover corners of wire bedsprings with adhesive tape. Then sheets will not catch on the corners and tear.

Egg stains can be removed by using cold water then washing thoroughly with hot water and soap.

Just before you finish stewing prunes add a small can of diced pineapple. Cook 10 minutes longer and serve.

Potatoes may be baked in a much shorter time if allowed to stand for 10 minutes in very hot water after scrubbing, and then are placed directly on the grate in the oven.

Say women! How about serving four or five new dishes? Make your meals attractive because they are "different". Here are some suggestions:

Ham Hock with Lima

2-lb. cut of ham at hock joint, or a knuckle.
3 cups cooked lima.
Boil ham until nearly tender. Add cooked lima and cook together for 15 minutes. Serve with harvard beans or cooked cabbage.

BEEF AND ORANGE SALAD

6 medium-sized boiled beefs
2 oranges
5 tablespoons mayonnaise
3 tablespoons minced onion
Lettuce

Chill beefs and scoop out centers; remove sections from oranges, dice, drain and mix with onion. Fill beefs with this mixture and serve on crisp lettuce leaves topped with mayonnaise. Serves 6.

LEI FRAPPE

Vitamin-filled fruit juices make healthful. Frozen desserts for summer menus. Pineapple juice, which is a good source of vitamins B1 and C combined with orange and lime juices also rich in vitamin C, makes this refreshing desert.

1 cup strained honey
1 cup hot water
1 cup orange juice
2 cups canned unsweetened Hawaiian pineapple juice
4 tablespoons lime juice
2 egg whites.
Blend honey and hot water. Stir in

About the time I left England, Prime Minister Churchill wrote to a mass meeting of farmers and farm workers:

"Never before have farmers and farm workers carried such a heavy responsibility as you do in this struggle. Never before have you responded to the country's call as you have done in the last two years. It is due in no small measure to the efforts you have made, in spite of many difficulties, that we find ourselves today in a better position on the food front than at any previous time since the war started."

There is some grumbling and complaining of course. We heard one poultry farmer say that he was almost out of business, in spite of the scarcity of eggs. He could not get enough feed for his rather large flock and he didn't think the distribution of eggs was well carried out, some of them going bad. In other cases the county committees evidently guess wrong.

Vegetables were plentiful and they helped fill out many a meal in Britain in the past few months. Literally millions of persons were growing vegetables in their private gardens or "allotments". They had sacrificed many of their flowers though nearly every garden still had roses.

Fruit juices. Chill. Freeze to a stiff mush in tray of mechanical refrigerator. Turn mixture into a bowl. Beat until smooth with a rotary egg beater. Fold in egg whites which have been beaten until stiff but not dry. Return to tray and freeze until firm. Yield: Eight servings.
If a sweeter sherbert is desired use ½ cup honey.

HOUSEHOLD HINTS

FRUIT CREAM PIES

1-1/2 cups sweetened condensed milk
1-4 cup lemon juice
1 cup fruit
1-2 cup whipping cream
Baked pie shell (9-inch)
Blend sweetened condensed milk & lemon juice. Stir until mixture thickens. Fold in prepared fruit. Pour in to baked pie shell. Cover with whip cream. Chill before serving.
* Use any one of the following fruits:
1 cup fresh raspberries
1 cup sliced fresh strawberries
1 cup sliced peaches or apricots
2 medium-sized bananas, cut in small pieces.

SOUR CREAM DRESSING

1 pint sour cream
1/2 cup lemon juice
1 1/2 teaspoons salt
2 teaspoons sugar
2 teaspoon white pepper
1/2 teaspoon prepared mustard
1-2 cup tomato catsup
Beat cream until light. Add lemon juice salt, sugar, pepper and mustard. Beat until thick and add catsup. Beat again until well blended and ready to serve. This dressing is especially good with sea foods and with greens.

SPICED COFFEE

6 cups freshly brewed decaffeinated coffee
1-2 cup whipping cream, whipped
1-8 teaspoon cinnamon
1-8 teaspoon nutmeg

Top each cup of coffee with a spoonful of whipped cream into which the spices have been folded. Sugar may be served with the coffee if desired. This is a delicious party beverage that guests can drink in festive spirit without worrying over sleeping problems later on. Remember when making coffee in the percolator let it "perk" gently a little longer than other coffee to bring out its full flavor.

FIFTY THOUSAND TONS OF TOMATOES

In the glasshouses where roses and carnations bloomed in peace time, British flower farmers hope to produce this year 50,000 tons of tomatoes. They are also growing great quantities of outdoor food crops.
One nursery alone, whose output in 1939 was entirely of cut flowers, produced last year 950 tons of tomatoes, 125,000 lettuce, 320 tons of sugar beet, 100 tons of onions and 75 tons of carrots, all from glasshouses or from land previously planted with flower crops. This year 50 per cent of the nursery's total glass area is planted with tomatoes and 80 per cent of its outdoor ground is growing food crops.

Since the war Britain's flower industry has been controlled by horticultural cropping orders and its employees are reserved at the age of 30 only if they are engaged on food production.

BRITAIN'S OLD BONES

Britain's dogs are not allowed to bury their bones these days. Collectors of household and butcher's scraps, the bones are now producing fuel for aluminum and nitro-glycerine for high explosives.

One ton of salvaged bones gives 2 cwts. of grease, yielding nitro-glycerine for shells, lubricating oil for guns and tanks and 3 cwt. of glue in the making of aircraft, tanks, guns, ships and shells; 1 cwt. of feeding-meat and bone-meal, providing the protein ration for 450 pigs for one day or 8,960 hens for one day; and 9 cwt. of fertilizer sufficient for 4 1/2 acres of land.

Local authorities in Britain are recovering bones at the rate of over 100,000 tons a year. The first step is to the factory where the first step in order to recover the tallow, is to melt out any fatty material which is melted separately. The sorted bones are then crushed and conveyed mechanically to large steel vessels holding 10 tons. Steam vapour is passed through these vessels to sterilize the bones and remove the grease. The grease is recovered from the benzene solution and purified to give bone grease for the manufacture of candles, soap and glycerine.

The bone is next conveyed to a revolving drum which rubs off the meat and fine bone. This is collected and made into protein animal feed and bone meal fertilizer. The polished bone provides the glue so essential to aircraft production and the rest due left in the vessels is used to make bone four fertilizer or a supplement to cattle food. The glue is also used in shell-cases and fuses, in making fire-resistant and camouflage paints, and in the production of thousands of miles of gummed tape for A.R.P. purposes.

One factory alone in England produces weekly 60 tons of grease, 50 tons of glue, 100 tons of feeding stuffs and 50 tons of bone fertilizer.

SUGGESTIONS TO

CONSERVE TIRES

Motorists are urged to give particular attention to the preservation of their tires. Under wartime conditions, one of the first principles to be rigorously observed is economy, and the motorist can apply it in full measure in respect to his tires.

Time and again, federal officials have stated that present tires will in all likelihood have to do for the duration, as the country's fighting forces will require all new supplies.

A cardinal rule in saving tires, says the Alberta Motor Association, is: "Take it easy." The power in your car should be used for better handling and for getting out of tight places easily, not for driving at racing speeds. The safe life of a tire at 30 miles per hour is only half of what it is at 30 miles per hour. At 70 miles per hour it falls to only 30 per cent of normal expectancy.

High speed on curbs is especially tough on tires. It has been found that motorists who drive in regions where the roads are high in curves,

The Value of Your Local Paper in Local Business

THE WAINWRIGHT STAR plays an important part in all local affairs. It employs wage-earners whose homes are in the district from which it secures business. These wage-earners pay taxes, support various churches, make their contributions to local appeals, take part in community organizations, and spend most of their wages with local merchants. It is no idle boast that the Star has been the means of giving well-directed publicity to this town and district.

THERE is no business institution which gives so much free service as a local newspaper. Were a merchant asked to give the equivalent in goods that the newspaper gives in free service to all organizations, he would find it impossible to meet the demands.

WHEN money is spent for printing or advertising with your local printing office, you are helping local printers to help you. You make it possible for them to serve you better. Out-of-town printing salesmen take money out of the community—pay no taxes, buying nothing from local stores, getting all they can and not caring whether you sink or swim.

AS merchants expect customers to be loyal to their own community in buying goods from them, so might merchants remember they, too, should follow the same ideals in regard to their local printing office.

IT'S GOOD BUSINESS FOR ALL OF US!

Customer goodwill in this town and district can best be developed by regular advertising in your community newspaper. The money spent for advertising, and printed matter, goes back to local merchants in increased trade.

YOUR dollars do double duty when spent with your local newspaper—they help you directly and others indirectly.

Our laboratory has made duplicate germination tests and sent out reports on 9,075 seed samples of cereals and flax during the past winter. This shows clearly that services we offer are in demand among farmers and are appreciated by them. Grain buyers are pleased to be in a position to assist their patrons in this way. An equally, if not more, important matter follows.

Why have we in the prairie provinces fallen so far short of our flax acreage goal? Of course, there are several reasons. Some land is unsuitable, grasshoppers are a threat in some districts and it is not a particularly nice crop to handle. However, one of the chief reasons for fighting shy of flax is the prevalence of weeds.

Every farmer should know the names and habits of all weeds on or near his land. Perhaps this sounds like free advice which is worth only what it costs. Not so! It is a plain statement of fact. Any farmer who cannot recognize all important weeds may be sheltering some very dangerous ones without knowing it.

In order to have weeds accurately identified without cost, it is only necessary to deliver specimens (complete with roots and flowers—if possible) to any grain buyer of line elevator companies associated with this Department. Grain buyers will forward them to our office, and we will report promptly.

We feel inclined to apologize for dealing with a subject so unhappy; but the weed problem gets worse year by year, and we are ready and willing to help.

Our 12-page bulletin "An Illustrated Guide to Prairie Weeds" is available to farmers free. Consult your local grain buyer or write to us for a copy.

LAC and Mrs. G. Taylor were in town last week end from Granum and gave us a call. We understand that Gerald will be leaving for the West shortly while Mrs. Taylor will leave for Edson.

A good attendance is hoped for at the annual basket picnic at Gilt Edge Park on Wednesday next under the auspices of Gilt Edge church and Sunday school.

Mr. and Mrs. Joe Collett are here from Quebec on a visit to friends in the district.

Miss Beth Elder of Saskatoon was here with friends over the week end before returning home.

Miss M. Coffield, who is in training at the Royal Alexandra hospital in the city is spending a holiday with her parents here.

This is "laugh-week" at the Elite theatre. If you can't laugh don't come.

Miss M. Lane is spending a week in town with her parents for a holiday.

Miss Della Cotton is enjoying a holiday at her parental home here before returning to her nursing duties at the Royal Alexandra hospital in Edmonton.

Messrs F. Fehner, W. Bolduc and others spent a pleasant week end at Cold Lake on a fishing trip, and returned well supplied with some splendid specimens of the finny tribe on Monday.

PLYMOUTH CLEARS UP RAID DEBRIS

Like other raid scarred cities in Britain, Plymouth is rapidly clearing up the rubble, and here is a view showing how far the city has succeeded in its big task. On LEFT is the Guildhall, and on RIGHT is St. Andrew's church, whilst in the background, is or rather was, the shopping centre.
